A MASONIC PIRATE.

A remarkable experience was once narrated to me by Captain Tisdale, fi-ther in law of the late Samuel T. Cobb, editor of the Boston Home Journal.
Captain Tisdale told me that the ship "The Commodore" was captured by Portuguese pirates, and he, with his crew, was taken aboard the pirate craft, and he was ready for struggling up at a given signal.

With an instinctive impulse of defense, Captain Tisdale threw out the grand Masonic sign. The pirate captain was a Free Mason and recognized it. He ordered the rope to be taken from Captain Tisdale's neck and took him into his cabin, where he examined him. Well satisfied with the examination, he treated him to the best he had in his cabin, and then returning with him to the deck, he ordered the rope to be taken from the neck of the captured crew. He then entertained the officers as guests in his cabin, and ordered a sumptuous repast to be served out to the crew. After all had partaken to their satisfaction, he ordered the boatswain to take them all to their own vessel.

Arrived at the ship, Captain Tisdale waited till all had climbed on deck, and then he took his turn. When he started to go up the pirate boatswain exclaimed in a deep, guttural voice, which Captain Tisdale initiated as only an old captain could, "You thank your God you fell into such good hands!" and then ordered his boat's crew to pull for the black craft, whose terrible master had displayed such loyal devotion to the grand order of which he was a member, and given evidence of the true knight-ship spark that is in every human breast.—(Boston Transcript.)

HE LONG POSED AS A WOMAN
A crowd in skirts for in squaring in a woman's garb, 50-year-old "Christian" Breckles, a man, almost deceived the clerks at Jefferson Market, N.W.
York, Police Court, on Monday. He was the exact voice, figure and carriage of a woman, and, now that he is detected, he admits that for years he has posed as one, dressed as one, but never before been "spotted" as a man.

Breckles explained his disguise by saying that as a married man, and father of a family, he has invariably found it easier to secure employment as a woman than as a man.

While he was still insisting earlier Monday morning to the police that he was no man, he was hustled off to the Mercer Street Station, where there is a matron. Half an hour later he was hustled back again, with an angry and dignified remonstrance from the matron, who had quickly discovered that Breckles was a man. When arraigned before Magistrate Daniel, with the veil still over his face, Breckles said: "I do not see why I may not dress as a woman so long as I behave in a ladylike manner."

Breckles was fined $10, not for masquerading as a woman, but for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

GO NORTH, BALDHEADS.—According to the San Francisco Call, many of the baldheads who adventured into the Klondike a year ago in search of gold are returning with Samsonian heads of hair. Not a few of them missed the precious metal but gained the precious locks. Mr. R. D. Smith is a shining example of the hair-restoring powers of the North. When he went to the Klondike his scalp was as bare as a billiard ball; now his mane is as shaggy as the hair of a Shetland pony. "The intense cold kills all the germs and microbes," he asserts, "and stimulates the scalp and nature does the rest."

Robbed the Grave.
A startling incident, of which Mr.
John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows:
"I was in a most dreadful condition.
My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, guaranteed, at E. S. Allen's and E. S. Leadbeater & Sons', Drug Stores.

WE GIVE NO REWARDS.

ception. Our plan is to give every one a chance to try the merit of Ely's Cream Balm, Hay Fever and Cold in the Head, by making power. We make no test. Test it and you are sure to continue the treatment. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. Ely Brothers,
